NOBEL AWARDS

Two Mayo Clinic researchers and a Swiss professor are the recipients this year of the Nobel Prize for Medicine. It was 50 years ago that the Nobel Foundation established by Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite, made its first awards. The progress in medical research in this half-century gives hope that more lives may be saved in consequence than ever were jeopardized by that devastating explosive. The distinguished American winners are Dr. Edward C. Kendall, 64, head of the biochemical laboratory at the clinic at Rochester, Minn., and Dr. Philip S. Hench, head of the medical department of the clinic. The citation declared the prize was awarded "for their discoveries regarding the hormones of the adrenal cortex, their structure and biological effects."

The Swiss professor is Dr. Tadeus Reichstein. He and Dr. Kendall, working separately thousands of miles apart, were able to develop suparenal cortex hormones, 15 and 10 years ago, respectively.

It was when Dr. Kendall suggested to Dr. Hench, who was studying treatment of rheumatoid arthritis cases, that cortisone, one of the hormones, be used, that amazing benefits were recorded. Cortisone as a drug is produced only after about 30 processes and is still very expensive. It comes from cell secretions that can stimulate cell activity elsewhere in the body.

It is admitted that relief of rheumatoid arthritis is not permanent, but claimed that the patient is invigorated, freed from pain and does not relapse into so severe a condition with twisting of joints. Hopes for future results are high.

These men rightly take their place beside other recipients of the Nobel awards: Sir Alexander Fleming of London, discoverer of Penicillin; Dr. Paul Mueller, of Basel, Switzerland, for DDT, the insecticide that prevented the spread of insect-borne diseases in World War II; three American physicians honored for their researches in anemia, and Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, daughter of Mme. Curie, co-discoverer of radium, for making ordinary elements radioactive and providing inexpensive radium treatment for disease.

Those Russians think of everything. Comrade Vishinsky, currently at large in the United States, has bought a new Cadillac which has a place to carry the communist flag preparatory to the big red parade down Broadway.

Butter and potatoes are in better supply but higher priced. Formerly, when production increased, prices went down, but that was before the politicians repealed the law of supply and demand.

Days and nights now about equal, both may be said to have attained parity.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"
By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 — Withdrawn British ground forces fighting in Korea can attest to the effectiveness of Soviet MIG-15 jet fighters. Being strafed by the 600-mile-an-hour jets is a sort of payoff for postwar empire trade practices. Many of the jet engines were built in England and sold to the Soviet Union.

U. S. ground troops have no need for feeling neglected, either. The machine tools that helped set up the Soviet assembly lines to produce the jet fighters and other weapons came from the U. S. A. or from factories financed with U. S. dollars.

The law that set up the economic cooperation administration specifically forbids any bid for the Soviet Union or its satellites. But if you think that hampered the British, French or Italians, take another guess. The system of selling tools, steel and fuel to Russia is simple.
The British have admitted it and their labor government officials informed E.C.A. aides that they are going to keep right on.

In early 1949 a congressional committee, at the insistence of representative John Taber, New York Republican, took a look at British export figures. A British mission was in the U. S. with a long list of demands for E.C.A.- financed machinery and supplies.
One item the British officials insisted they needed desperately was strip mining machinery. Another was sheet steel. To hear them talk the Empire would collapse if they failed to get both.

What puzzled Congressman Taber and others was that while E.C.A. was lending a sympathetic ear to these demands British export figures disclosed a brisk trade in exactly these two items. At the time, British officials were very coy about where the mining equipment and sheet steel were going. But they couldn't deny their own export figures.
Sheet steel exports to Russia and the satellites totaled more than the entire British production. And enough strip mining machines were sent to Britain to equip the coal industry for 100 years. Only a few of the machines, of course, stayed in the British Isles. Most of them were transhipped immediately to Russian buyers.

All Congressman Taber got for his pains in pointing out these facts was a lot of abuse. Even today if you raise the issue, the give-away clique in and out of Congress hurls accusations of isolationist, and charges that criticism of E.C.A. is the equivalent of opposition to it.
That, in turn, is the equivalent of pro-communism.

The fact is, however, that the British today are still sending machine tools for the production of planes, guns, tanks, and bullets.

How Fire Insurance Helps You
Buy a New Home

Bill and Lillian Smith had wanted their own home for years.
Then Lillian found it.
But how did fire insurance help them buy it?
Without fire insurance on the house Bill couldn't have borrowed the money to buy it.
But even before the house was a blueprint, fire insurance helped make possible the entire development. Without its protection the builder could not have financed his own operations.
That's how fire insurance helps you acquire a home with conveniences that are possible today only in a country where business freedom is constantly making America a better place to live in.
Your fire insurance rate per $100 protection is as much as 30% lower today than it was 30 years ago. Write for booklet giving the facts and telling other advantages of stock company fire insurance.

Transfer of Production To Be Completed Soon

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 15
—The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company today announced it will transfer all production now remaining at its Easton plant to its plant here by December 31.

At the same time the company announced it is spending approximately $250,000 to transfer equipment, install new equipment and improve facilities at the Cornwells Heights plant.

Transferred to the new location will be production facilities for several of Pennsalt's laundry and dry cleaning products, emulsion type metal cleaning compounds, and the eastern reshipping point for hydrofluoric and anhydrous hydrofluoric acids.

The Cornwells Heights plant, purchased by Pennsalt in 1939 currently includes facilities for production of liquid bleach and for cylinder filling of chlorine and ammonia and some acid repackaging.
It is also the East Coast reshipping point for a large number of Penn-salt chemicals for foreign and domestic sales. During the war it housed auxiliary cryolite refining facilities.

The company also announced that R. W. Tomlinson, superintendent of the Easton plant, has been appointed superintendent of the Cornwells Heights plant, replacing R. O. White, who is to become superintendent of Pennsalt's new plant now under construction at Montgomery, Ala.

Edward Weil Responds
Very Well To Therapy

Edward Weil, a former resident of Bristol Terrace II, who was stricken with "polio" last December, is said to be responding well to treatment, and now has the use of his arms and hands, and is able to breathe normally.

When first stricken, Mr. Weil's condition was critical for several weeks and he was paralyzed from his neck down.

This year finds Mr. and Mrs. Weil and family residing in Richmond, Va. Mr. Weil is receiving medical care in the McGuire Veterans administration hospital, while Mrs.
Weil and family are living nearby in a new all-aluminum trailer, which Mrs. Weil purchased, and had constructed so that Mr. Weil could move about in it in his wheelchair.

Last spring, Mrs. Weil participated in the radio program "Strike It Rich" in New York and won the grand prize of $500 to help purchase the trailer. Arrangements are being made for Mr. Weil to continue his college studies which were interrupted by this illness.
Mr. Weil now enjoys week-ends at home with his family.

Report Bus Will Aid In Highway "Crossing"

A meeting of East Bristol Township Parent - Teacher Association was held last evening, in Edgely primary school building. Mrs. William Crawford, president, was in charge.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Jennings were introduced by Mrs. Oscar Booz. They being members of a committee for investigation of a proposed hospital for this area, they are endeavoring to learn reaction of residents to plans for such.

John Hollister, director of International Institute of Education, New York, N. Y., was introduced by Mrs. Adolph Ancker, program chairman. He chose as his topic,
"American Leadership in the World Today." He told that the United States would have to appeal to the intellectual people of the foreign nations to put across their ideas on democracy to their people.

A business meeting followed.
Minutes were read by Warren Bruce, secretary. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Oscar Booz.

The banner for the month was awarded to Mrs. Wilkes' first grade.
Mrs. Joseph Ward reported the card party held Nov. 10th proved a success.

Oscar Booz reported on the highway situation. The school board has consented to send a bus to Dick's store, Headley Manor, each morning and afternoon to transport children from that section to and from school, due to hazardous condition in crossing the highway.

A refreshment committee report was given by Mrs. Carolyn Smith.
The group was told of future programs by program chairman, Mrs.
Ancker. Membership chairman, Mrs. Clarence Kay, reported 154 members to date.

Refreshments were served.

PURCHASE FLOODLIGHTS

YARDLEY, Nov. 15—The all-purpose emergency truck of Yardley Fire Company was put on public display recently. The unit's auxiliary supported the company in purchasing 10 250-watt floodlights and a 3,000-watt water-cooled generator for the truck.

no has been invited to attend the First Annual Peruvian Film Festival in Lima this Christmas.

Big Time Anticipated, Youth Center Opening

NEWTOWN, Nov. 15 — Ezra Stone, Burgess Harry Shields and the Rev. John E. Mertz will play leading roles in the dedication Friday night of Neshaminy Valley Youth Center at 8:15 p. m. It was announced today by the program committee under Stanley Sutton, Jr.

A sound wagon will roll through the community an hour prior to the historic occasion. The building will be lighted from the outside by engines from half a dozen surrounding communities. The majority of local stores will close at eight to allow customers to be on hand when Ronnie Young plays "Star Spangled Banner" to open the program.

Ezra Stone will take the microphone from Harry Shields Friday night and "emcee" the dedication ceremonies, with an assist from his wife Sara Seeger. Dr. Mertz will tell the story of this town project.
C. Krusen and Jean Eno will speak on behalf of the young people, for whom the center is primarily intended. Dr. A. J. Strathie, a director, will introduce other members of the board. Paul Blanchard will sum up what's been done.

The directors are sponsoring an opening dance for teen-agers, from 8 to 11 Saturday night, music by a local band.

"Berry-Bearing Shrubs" Discussed at Newtown

NEWTOWN, Nov. 15 — The monthly meeting of Newtown Garden club was held Friday afternoon, at the home of Miss Julia Balder-ston. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Russell Janney, with Mrs. Alfred Amsler as secretary and treasurer.

The new book purchased for the Newtown Library, in memory of Miss Helen M. Ely, was on exhibition. Roll call showed 80 gifts of flowers and plants and fruit given away during the month.

Miss Olive Balderston gave a talk on "Berry Bearing Shrubs," with specimen of 19. She read an article on berried plants, stating this month is the climax of the season for nearly all trees and shrubs that bear ornamental fruits. The group had opportunity to identifying specimens.

Mrs. Reuben Kester followed with the "question and answer" period.
She told when to transplant peon-ies, and the preparation and care of gladioli bulbs for winter keeping.

Milestone in a Career!

We see it happen over and over again—and it's one of the greatest satisfactions we enjoy in this happy business of selling Cadillac cars.

It's when a man comes into possession of his first Cadillac—and we see the wonderful things it does for him.

We see his happiness as he places his order—not as the result of a sudden inspiration, but because he has gradually reached the conclusion that he has earned the right to enjoy the unquestioned best.

And then we see him on that happy day when his car is available for delivery—and he settles himself so proudly behind the wheel.

He's a little quizzical, we sometimes note. Could it be, he wonders, that he has been anticipating a bit too much?

And then he's out in the street—headed for home the long way 'round.

Those are thrilling days that follow.

There's the first long ride with the family . . . the first trip to the office . . . and the time he learns, in an emergency, that his car is worth its whole price in safety alone.

And then, almost before he knows it, the odometer registers a thousand miles—and he's back to tell us all about it. And, perhaps, to grumble a little bit at giving it up—even for a little while!

Yes, it's a priceless privilege to watch all this. Makes a man feel that he's doing good.

A commercial demonstration followed.

There will be a meeting on November 16th at eight p. m. in the Falls Township fire station for all Den mothers of the Cub scouts. There will be a class on handcraft at that time.

On Sunday, the "Pennsbury club" held a tea at the home of Mrs. Bartley Cook, to entertain new and prospective members. Mrs. Frank Davenport, Jr., and Mrs. Gerald Roeser poured. There were 12 present.

Preliminary Building Sketches for Schools In Lower Bucks Co.

called attention to the fact that no provisions were made for libraries in the elementary program. She hoped the time will come when the value of libraries in a centralized area would be appreciated.

The report on Bristol senior high school was given by Dr. Arthur Stetson, superintendent of West Chester schools. Dr. Stetson reminded that plans are still in the exploratory stage but his group thought that the proposed site is adequate, but that a traffic light should be considered on Route 13. It was also believed that a six-year school should be considered, and that the building should be further back from the road.

The discussion group thought that public toilets should be provided in the gymnasium and auditorium, and that consideration should be given to using the Pennsylvania Railroad shops at the rear of the building for vocational shops for a larger service area.

The group would reorientate and relocate the baseball stands on the proposed field to avoid afternoon sun, and move stands closer to the baseball diamond. The consultants would also use the present football field to play its games, and build a practice field near the proposed high school. The group also thought that an "L" shaped building to orientate to the triangle of the site would be more appropriate, and closed its report by suggesting ample drinking fountains.

Walter Douthett, of Temple University, Phila., was a consultant on the Bristol plans. He was impressed by the work of the Bristol group and cited that industrial growth makes it hard to know the educational needs. Dr. John W. Hedger, superintendent of Bethlehem schools, was also impressed with the educational program. He claimed that Bucks County is setting a pattern for the large cities to follow in its educational program. Another member of the consultant group, Dr. Joseph Howe, superintendent of Burlington (N. J.) schools, spoke of Bristol and Bristol township getting together on the school program, while Dr. Ray Wallick, superintendent of Yeadon schools, congratulated the directors on their program. Wallick stated that the school districts in a few years will reap payoffs of the present planning.

Dr. Ross Neagley, professor of education, Temple University, Philadelphia, reported on the Bensalem senior high school. His consultants were satisfied with the long term planning program, but thought that the present high school building should be changed to a junior high building upon completion of the proposed new school, and an elementary school be built.

His group figured that the cafeteria is not large enough and that 100 feet could be added to the auditorium by moving the shop room. In the proposed plans, the group expressed the opinion that some advantages are lost in its present shape. The group also recommended that the music room be moved away from the shop room, and a partition be built between the cafeteria and kitchen.

Present plans call for oil heat, while some members of the panel seemed to think that consideration should be given to gas heat. The group advised there wasn't enough storage space in the building, and the guidance director's office was inadequate. It also suggested that the superintendent's office should not be so close to the principal's office, and both should be provided with private entrances.

The consultants would make the library room larger so that the entire community could be served as there is no library in the district.

Speaking for the Bensalem consultants were: Dr. Harvey Vanderstee, professor of education at Ursinus College; Dr. James Nancarrow, principal, Upper Darby high school; Hon. Marvin Keller, Pennsylvania House of Representatives; Elmer VanSant, president of Badenhausen Corp.

Dr. Vanderstee brought out four points: Co-operation of the various educational groups; contributions of teachers; not enough time to study plans; and most of the proposed buildings would not make an architectural contribution to the community.

Dr. Nancarrow thought that inasmuch that the public would pay to see various activities in the auditorium and gymnasium, provisions should be made that a room be used for the selling of tickets. He also thought that the "gym" should have a playing floor of standard size so that when Bensalem plays on other standard floors, they would be used to it.

Mr. VanSant spoke of the congested condition in the schools for the past four years. He added that the restrictions now placed on steel production may hurt some of the building programs.

The report on Neshaminy junior-senior high school group was given by H. Frank Hare, superintendent of Phoenixville schools. He stated that the site of the proposed school is not definite, but seemed adequate because of its accessibility to all the districts. He suggested that the music room be placed close to some room that is not noisy. The group suggested that all facilities for students should be in the vocational shops so that no one need be excused from the class-room. The report also suggested that the guidance director's room be segregated from any other room so that private discussions may be had. The group recommended that the football equipment storage room be segregated from the rest of the building.

Speaking as a consultant on the Neshaminy program, Dr. George McCormack, superintendent of Pottstown schools, said: "I never heard of a thing like this before. It is wonderful and just think I had to come east to see such a meeting." Others speaking as consultants on the Neshaminy program were Dr. Paul Loser, superintendent of Trenton (N. J.) schools; Dr. M. Claude Rosenberry, chief, music education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

The summary of the day's work was by Dr. William Arnold, professor of education, University of Pennsylvania. He admired the progress of Bucks Co. in its "efficient and economical educational program." He stated that the future is unpredictable but advised directors not to be cut short. He called attention to the fact that the directors had received the opinion and advice of many educational leaders but it is up to them to apply the suggestions to their own needs.

The Hon. D. Dollenberger, chairman, committee of education, House of Representatives, Harrisburg, stated that he was disappointed in not learning of the cost of the proposed buildings and the fact that the maintenance cost of the one-story and two-story buildings were not mentioned. He told the group that within a few years 441,000 more children would attend public schools in the state, requiring the hiring of from 15,000 to 20,000 teachers and that $300,000,000 will be required for new buildings and annexations, not counting the cost of repairing present buildings or the cost of hiring the new teachers. "The state would most likely put up its share of the money providing the districts show that proper assessments and proper tax collections are brought to standard."

He stated that the districts are 20 years behind in the school program because they were afraid to present their programs to the state and did not do so until forced. "To insure the program there should be co-operation between the teachers and administrators, the school directors, and taxpayers."

The special discussion groups consisted of: Bensalem Senior High—Expeditor, Dr. Lewis N. Snyder, regional superintendent, Sellersville-Perkasie schools; reporter, Dr. Neagley; consultants, Dr. Vanderstee, Dr. Nancarrow, and VanSant; panel, Dr. Frederick Schull, director, Neshaminy; J. Russell Straub, director, Bristol township; Howard Leister, student council, Bensalem; Joan Braker, student council, Bristol; James Bustran, student council, Bristol township; Martha Riggs, student council, Neshaminy; F. Eugene Klinger, regional superintendent, Upper Southampton-Warminster schools.

Bristol Senior High School—Expeditor, Medill Lair, regional superintendent, Pennsbury schools; reporter, Dr. Stetson; consultants, Dr. Allan Harman, assistant county superintendent, Montgomery County schools; Dr. Wallick, John Hedge, Dr. Howe, George Schaffer, coordinator, Industrial and Vocational Education, Southeastern Pennsylvania; panel, Robert Luska, student council, Bensalem; Deane Priestley, student council, Bristol Township; Joan Volponi, student council, Bristol; Shirley Heizmann, student council, Neshaminy; John Paul, director, Neshaminy; M. R. Reiter, superintendent of Morrisville schools; Norman C. Kratz, superintendent of Council Rock schools; John Grasse, regional superintendent, Deep Run Valley schools; Paul L. Gruber, director, secondary instruction, Bucks County; J. Edgar Spencer, director, Bristol Township; H. Franklin Moore, president of Bucks County Board of School Directors.

Neshaminy Junior-Senior High School—Expeditor, Joseph S. Neidig, superintendent of Quakertown-Tolickon schools; reporter, H. Frank Hare, superintendent of Phoenixville schools; consultants, Dr. Loser, Dr. McCormack, Hon. D. Dollenberger; Dr. L. W. Ashby, Cheltenham schools; and Dr. M. Claude Rosenberry; panel, Thomas E. Coe, director, Neshaminy; John D. Dougherty, director, Bristol; Dr. Ruth Fedder, psychologist, Bucks County schools; Florence Arrow, student council, Bensalem; James Gallagher, student council, Bristol; Donald Leitch, student council, Neshaminy; Lester Void, director, Pennridge schools; Joseph Fink, associate regional superintendent of Pottsville schools.

Croydon and Andalusia Annex—Expeditor, Melvin Mack, regional superintendent, Pottsville schools; reporter, Dr. Bowen; consultants, Meredith Smith, Thompsie Baxter, Cora Holsclaw, elementary supervisor, Pennsbury Schools; Alta S. Leamy, elementary supervisor, Warminster schools; panel, William Smyrl, student council, Bristol Township; Germitia Constantini, council, Bristol; Robert Castle, student council, Neshaminy; Raymond Gilbert, associate regional superintendent, Council Rock, John L.

Allman, director, Bristol twp.; Dorothy McCollum, elementary supervisor, Bristol twp.; Elsie Dubhorn, elementary supervisor, Bensalem twp.; Grace H. Taylor, treasurer, county board of school directors; Clyde M. Davis, regional superintendent, New Hope-Solebury schools.

The plans for the Bensalem schools were presented by Superintendent William B. Shellenberger; Bristol, Warren P. Snyder, superintendent, with J. W. Blew, architect; Neshaminy, Dr. Oliver S. Heckman, regional superintendent with Paul D'Entremont, architect; Bristol twp., Walter D. Miller, regional superintendent with Joseph Wigmore, Jr., architect.

The general consultants were Dr. William Arnold, and Dr. C. Herman Grose, deputy superintendent, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

Members of the Bucks County Board of School Directors are: H. Franklin Moore, Grace H. Naylor, Kenneth M. Conly, Warren High, and Frank H. Tremblay, Jr.

WILLOW GROVE "VETS" TO OPPOSE ST. ANN'S

The Willow Grove Vets-St. Ann's A. football game will be played on the Bristol high school field this Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Complete arrangements for the game were made yesterday.

The contest will decide fourth place, final playoff spot, in the Northeast Football Conference. The "Saints" and Vets finished in a deadlock for the position with four wins and three defeats each. The winner of the Willow Grove-St. Ann's game will face Ditman A. A. regular season champions on Sunday, Nov. 26th.

Coach Pete Bornice, of St. Ann's, is holding practice drills every evening. Coach Bornice is changing from the "T" to the single-wing formation for the Vets' contest.

Communism Worse Than "Hitlerism"

pleasure to introduce Dr. Michael M. Dorizas.

Mr. Dorizas, addressing the group, said: "I have traveled all over the world, and would like to know what countries you would like me to talk about this evening."

The countries the members asked to hear about were Russia, Germany, India, and Iran. "The first World War was fought to make it safe for democracy, we did not do it, then this last world war was fought to smash Hitlerism, which we did, but now we have something worse than Hitlerism ever was and the trouble all lays on the shoulders of Joseph Stalin. He does not want the world to be settled," Mr. Dorizas stated. "He is out to make Moscow the center of a Communist world. In the books that Stalin has written he states that he has dedicated his life to world revolution. Any trouble in any part of the world you can be sure Russia is back of."

"Communists are not in the majority in Russia as they only number about 3% of the population. The Communists are the ones in power there and their leader, Joseph Stalin, makes sure they stay in power by killing all who try in any way to put his party out. The thing we have to do is separate the people of Russia from its leaders, then our job will be done. This will not be easy as you know there is no Communism in Russia as they have Stalinism, and Stalin is the worst of all killers in history. He does not think anything of human life. Any one who is in the road or does not think as he does is liquidated and he has liquidated a lot of people, more than Hitler ever did."

"Russia today is nothing more than a police state as everyone in Russia is watched and no one trusts the other. The family does not mean anything in Communist Russia. There is no religion in Russia today. Stalin is dead against the church. Stalin preaches a religion of hate. There is no way we can work with these people for world peace as long as Stalinism is in control."

Mr. Dorizas, in speaking of India, said: "India has over 400 million people, is divided into two parts, and two different groups of people control. The average life span is 27 years, as the people all live in privation. . . . India is a very religious country and no one can be a Communist and have any religion so it is not too great of a problem to keep Communism out of India."

"In Germany the people in the Russian section cannot call their souls their own. The Russians have taken everything they could out of their section, even made slaves of the people. I don't believe they could depend on the German people if they tried to start anything in Germany. The Germans hate the Russians and I feel sure they would be on our side. In Iran there are large, rich oil fields and Russia needs oil badly. It is a very backward country as a few people own all the land. Where you have this the Communists can be very active. "What can we do about the spread of Communism? The only thing for us to do is make many atomic bombs and build and protect American industry. Once Stalin finds out he cannot destroy our industry he will not try to start anything. But remember that Stalin is the boss over there and make no mistake about it."

In closing, Mr. Dorizas said: "I feel that no matter what the leaders of the countries are, most of the people of the world are with us."

The next meeting will be held in the Philco Corp. cafeteria, Croydon.

Chinese and N. Korean Red Troops Hammer S. Korean Forces Into Retreat

way center at or near the Manchurian border since Nov. 5.

On the latter date, the hub of Kanggye in north central Korea was showered with incendiaries as Gen. Douglas MacArthur ordered a maximum air effort to destroy the routes over which Chinese Red troops move into Korea.

The five-way junction city of Hoeryong lies 30 miles north of the 42nd parallel in Korea's far northeastern corner. It is on the east bank of the south-north stretch of the Tumen river, opposite Manchuria and 45 miles west of the eight-mile-long Siberian-Korean border.

At Voeryong, the Tumen flows north past Manchuria's Tumen city, 35 miles above Hoeryong, then turns east for a short distance before dipping south to empty into the Japan sea just below Siberia's southwest tip.

While enemy forces drove forward in the center, American troops in northeast Korea pushed steadily nearer Manchuria's Yalu river border after driving to the edges of two prized reservoirs. The latter supply power to Chinese as well as Korean industries.

William I. Murphy was toastmaster at the testimonial. Speakers included the Rev. John Lynch, of church-owned property in the first ward, in the area surrounded by North Pennsylvania, Osborne and Stockham avenues. The property has a footage of 298 feet on Osborne avenue and 188 feet on Stockham and Pennsylvania avenues.
